LOWDOWN

Frail shoe fetishists grow weary of fighting through Beverly Hills department stores for the last pair of Manolo Blahniks in the proper size. We've moved on to Footcandy, where we're treated like freaking Marie Antoinette.

Nestled in the heart of Brentwood (look for the pink awning) is a delicious boutique armed with walking art from sizes 5 to 11, with labels from Christian Louboutin to Manolo Blahnik. Are you a woman with a shoe problem? Sit down and meet the owners, Robyne Wilson and Xiomara Zelaya, self-branded as women with "the problem." Naturally, Footcandy embraces this addiction. Resembling an old shoe salon of Paris' past, the caramel-dipped environment is particularly inviting, quite dissimilar to the dog-eat-dog world of department stores. If you've never tried on a pair of Jimmy Choos (um, who are you?), you won't be afraid to do so here. Take a quick amble—yes, there's actually room—and do thank the owners for buying the superfancy Belgian mirrors. There's a delicate yet bedazzled selection of heels, some perfect for the workplace (like Isaac Mizrahi's) and others meant for that evening's charity ball (like Giuseppe Zanotti's). The flats and boots don't go unnoticed, nor do the handbags sprinkled among their heeled friends. Ask about their private-party services as a fabulous upgrade to Girls Night—manicures, champagne and cupcakes are provided, along with a 15-percent discount. —Lien Ta
