

THE L.A. DISH

HomeStyleHealth & BeautyDiningEntertainmentNightlifePotluck

Style | New Store Opening

Footcandy Struts into Brentwood

People tell you all sorts of crazy things about how to live a good life. That you should work hard. That you ought to eat your vegetables. That you should "do unto others."

Yada, yada, yada.

Those misguided souls just need to tie one on -- around the ankle, that is -- at the hot footwear boutique Footcandy, which recently opened its doors in Brentwood.

Owned by longtime friends Xiomara Zelaya and Robyne Wilson, Footcandy is more than just a haven for Giuseppe, Manolo and Louboutin fanatics (although that's plenty good enough for us). Zeyala and Wilson also encourage guests to rest their well-heeled feet in the elegantly furnished store and indulge in a menu of "Candy Treats," such as the "Bridal Sweet" package -- including a closed-door shopping experience, hors d'oeuvres, champagne, in-store discounts, among other goodies -- for brides-to-be and their bridal posses ($175/person).

They deserve something for agreeing to those bridesmaids' dresses, after all.

For those who aren't betrothed, The Dish suggests celebrating your singleton status with the "Girls Afternoon" package, complete with pedicures, massages, sweets and a chick flick, costing $275 per person. (Because Giuseppe never complains about watching Steel Magnolias for the umpteenth time. Unlike those other, unfeeling lugs you've dated.)

Throw in a drool-worthy selection of Marc Jacobs and Jimmy Choo bags, to boot?

Now that's la dolce vita.

Footcandy, 11934 San Vicente Blvd., Los Angeles; (310) 820-4800 or www.footcandyshoes.com.

